DIPLOMATS AT LAKE SUCCESS
ARE UNEASY

Lake Success, Dec. 1—(AP)—With the specter of atomic war looming before them, United Nations diplomats today began round-the-clock discussions on how to get the Chinese Communists out of Korea without touching off World War III.

Conspicuously absent from the planning was Russia's Jacob A. Malik, who last night vetoed a conciliatory six-power security council resolution calling on the Chinese Reds to withdraw and promising to safeguard their legitimate interest in Korea and respect their Manchurian frontier.

He denounced the resolution as illegal and blamed "American imperialists" for the Korean war. Chinese Communist delegate Ku Hsiu-Chuan backed him up and declared "the people of China have complete confidence they can beat back the imperialist aggressors."

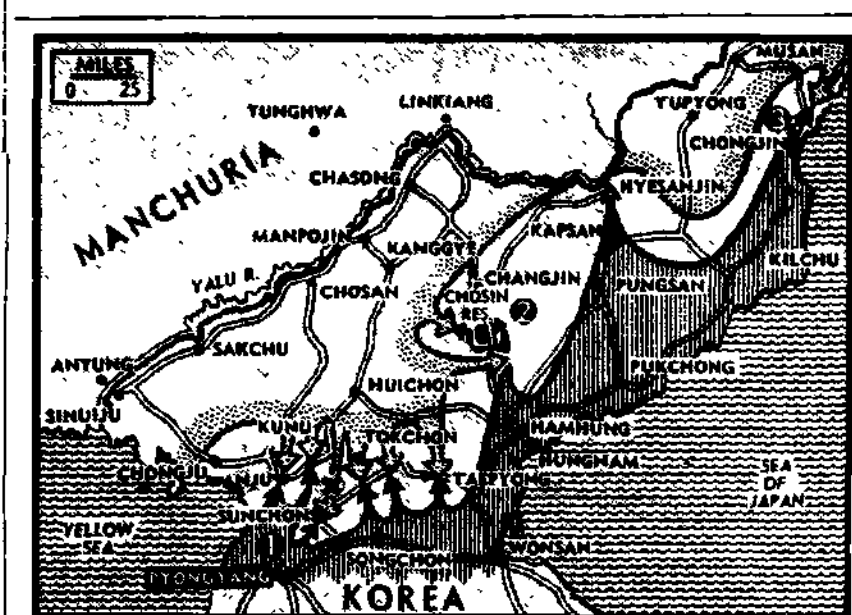

Wu spoke after the council, following a minimum of debate, threw out his charges that the U. S. had committed aggression against China and Korea. Only Russia voted in favor of them.

These intransigent attitudes from Moscow and Peking apparently slammed the door on hopes for an easy, negotiated withdrawal of Red Chinese from Korea. Diplomats began searching for some other solution which would still be short of all-out war.

The speeches by Malik and Wu helped to solidify non-Communist sentiment. It was apparent that the 43 nations who have backed U. N. action in Korea have no intention of retreating.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb warned that Peking's interests "may well suffer and suffer acutely" if Chinese Red troops keep pouring into Korea. India's Sir Benerup L. Rau urged Wu to study the American people who he said are "warm-hearted and the (Turn to Page Thirteen)

More Companies Are Expected To Fall In Line With Big Steel On Wage Increases

Pittsburgh, Dec. 1—(AP)—More companies are expected to fall in line quickly with the country's two biggest steel producers who have granted an immediate 16-cent average hourly pay increase to 259,000 members of the CIO United Steelworkers.

Big U. S. Steel Corporation set the pace for the rest of the industry as it granted the raise yesterday.

At the same time Big Steel hiked its prices about 5½ per cent. That will just about provide the additional $125,000,000 pay to go annually to its 165,000 employees, a company spokesman said.

A short time later Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the country's No. 2 producer, granted its 94,000 employees an identical 16-cent hourly average boost.

Bethlehem Steel didn't announce its price policy immediately. However, it's practically a certainty there will be a general increase in the price of steel and countless products which are made of steel.

Republic Steel Corporation at Cleveland, the No. 3 producer, says it has offered the Steelworkers a wage increase similar to that of Big Steel. Republic also put a price boost into effect last midnight but did not reveal the amount.

Pluck Of Pioneer Needed In Darkened Altoona Without Electricity For Week

Altoona, Dec. 1—(AP)—You need the pluck of a pioneer—and maybe a flashlight—to get along in this storm darkened railroad town today.

Most of the 84,000 residents have been without electricity since a ferocious steel storm last weekend.

The storm was part of a blow that nature struck against the entire northeastern quarter of the nation.

Today 75 per cent of Altoona's inhabitants still are without electricity.

One veterans' and three civilian hospitals had no power until emergency circuits were rigged up 24 hours after the storm started. A Pennsylvania Railroad generator still supplies power to one institution.

For days doctors and nurses at a state mental hospital tended bewildered patients with only flashlights for illumination.

More than 500 repairmen are working night and day on damaged lines. But sub-freezing temperatures and ice hinder their efforts.

Yesterday the sun came out two hours—for the first time since Saturday. Ice thawed and smiles brightened. (Turn to Page Thirteen)

LOCOMOTIVE HELPING TO HEAT COURT HOUSE

Wilkes-Barre, Dec. 1—(AP)—The Luzerne county courthouse and some adjoining buildings are getting heat today by means of a Lehigh Valley Railroad locomotive.

The locomotive was brought into play while steam boilers are being replaced in the county prison. The prison heating system provides heat for the other structures. County authorities asked Lehigh Valley officials to loan them the locomotive. Permission was granted and the steam engine was run up on a nearby siding and steam pipes attached.

BILLIONS FOR DEFENSE PLEA OF PRESIDENT

Washington, Dec. 1—(AP)—President Truman advised congressional leaders today that he wants $17,000,000,000 more for the armed forces and $1,200,000,000 more for the atomic energy program as a result of the tense international situation.

This huge spending, representing a vast speed-up in the country's rearming, comes atop a previous prospective $50,000,000,000 government outlay this fiscal year. The president told Democratic and Republican leaders of the staggering sums that will be needed at a tense, hour long White House conference.

All this money, the congress members said, would be used for United States forces, and not for the forces of other nations.

In a statement yesterday, Mr. Truman spoke also of a speed up in the defense arrangements of U. S. allies. Presumably, that will call for increased U. S. aid to them.

Most of President Truman's cabinet sat in on his conference with the congress members.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, director of central intelligence, were on hand when the congressional delegation arrived. Their job was to outline, as background for the congress members, the general military and international situation.

Even before the meeting, full-scale Republican support of the Korean war effort was promised by Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the GOP senate policy committee.

Attorney General McGrath told reporters the cabinet talked chiefly about manpower, commodities and prices. Asked what he meant by commodities, he said: "Steel, copper and other supplies."

McGrath would not comment when asked what the prospects were for a declaration of a national emergency.

The general sense of urgency gripping this capital was heightened by the news that Prime Minister Attlee of Britain is flying here Sunday for conferences with Mr. Truman.

The White House said their talks would cover Korea and other problems.

There was also news that Ambassador Alan Kirk was coming home from Moscow for a two months' vacation.

London dispatches described the purpose of Attlee's visit as aimed (Turn to Page Thirteen)

Mother And Three Tots Die In Garage

Englewood, N. J., Dec. 1—(AP)—An attractive 29-year-old wife shepherd her three small children into a closed garage last night and took their lives and her own with carbon monoxide fumes.

The bodies of socially prominent Mrs. Margaret Thompson Oppenheimer and the children, two of whom had been stricken with scarlet fever recently, were found slumped in the family station wagon by her husband, William.

Mrs. Oppenheimer, clad in blouse and dungarees, was found in the front seat of the station wagon. Her two young daughters, Ann Newton, 5½, and Mary Alice, 4, were found kneeling in the back as if at play. They were stricken with scarlet fever Wednesday. Her one-year-old son, William, Jr., was found on the floor.

Police listed the deaths as suicide and triple murder.

TO GUARD PRESIDENT FROM AIR AND GROUND

Philadelphia, Dec. 1—(AP)—President Truman will be guarded from the air as well as the ground when he comes here tomorrow for the annual Army-Navy football game.

U. S. Air Force fighter planes, "aimed to the teeth" will police the skies while the president is at Municipal Stadium. The fighter planes will prevent civilian, military or other aircraft from approaching within a few miles of the stadium.

Secret Service agents and Philadelphia police will provide the president's ground protection.

Prime Minister Attlee Makes Plans to Fly to Washington For Talks With Pres. Truman

London, Dec. 1—(AP)—A big three parley of heads of state on the worsening Asiatic crisis became a possibility today.

Prime Minister Attlee made last minute preparations to fly to Washington Sunday to see President Truman. In Paris a foreign office spokesman said French Premier Rene Pleven may join the talks.

The Paris spokesman said he understood the French premier might hurry to Washington if the national assembly gave him a sufficient vote of confidence later tonight. Whether Pleven remained in office depended on the vote.

The British foreign office announced that Attlee will see Pleven and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman tomorrow before leaving for Washington.

The first morning callers at his official 10 Downing Street residence were Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell.

Other ministers had engagements to see Attlee later in the day.

Informants said no full meeting of the cabinet had been scheduled.

An official spokesman said it was impossible to say yet how long the Prime Minister will stay in Washington. During his absence, his deputy, Herbert Morrison, will take over the reins of government.

An official spokesman said the Prime Minister had not decided whether to travel by RAF or civilian plane.

The British Prime Minister is expected during his visit to:

1. Emphasize to the president the British cabinet's view that no decision to use the atom bomb in Korea should be made without prior consultation with United Nations member states whose forces are fighting there.

2. Try to settle differences between American and British theories over the manner in which an approach should be made for a settlement with Red China and for the resolving of Far Eastern problems generally.

3. Press for withdrawal of U. N. Forces in Korea to a defense line well short of the Manchurian frontier before seeking a settlement with Red China.

4. Try to insure that the United States and Britain are in full accord in handling the delicate international situation.

Observers in Washington believe the Prime Minister also will explore with Mr. Truman the possibility of calling a secret high level meeting of the western powers and Russia to end world tension.

Such a meeting was urged in the house of commons yesterday by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill.

Attlee's decision to go to Washington was announced last night to commons, whose members were alarmed by reports that Mr. Truman is contemplating use of the atom bomb in Korea.

Excellent Progress Made In Removal Of Snow In Boro

Commissioner L. A. Webster and his augmented force with the aid of the automatic loader are making excellent progress in clearing the accumulation of snow from along the curbs in the business district, while men in charge of the plows continue their battle to clear and widen all earth roads and side streets in the borough.

Considering the task that confronted the department after the snow fall of last weekend, along with what has fallen intermittently since Monday, leaving an accumulation of from two feet to thirty inches, the commissioner and his men are deserving of words of commendation they are receiving for the rapid and thorough manner in which the work was accomplished.

In the meantime officials at the State Highway Department garage at Starbuck report that all main roads are open and ninety per cent of the rural routes are passable, although there are some places where motorists are urged to use extreme caution. All equipment has been in use, some of it almost continuously since last Sunday.

Top Intelligence Officer Says Atom Bombs Not Needed Now Against Reds In North Korea

By The Associated Press

Tokyo, Dec. 1—(AP)—General MacArthur's top intelligence officer said today the United Nations situation in Korea is not desperate and implied the atomic bomb is not needed to stem the Chinese Red tide.

He reported the Allied line in the critical northwest is being stabilized. The U. S. Eighth Army retreated to this shortened line extending inland from the Yellow Sea after its severe setback by the Chinese in the past week.

Eighth Army sources expected strong new Red attacks on that front Friday night or Saturday. A spokesman said enemy strength was building up south of the Chongchon river.

In the northeast across the peninsula's mountainous spine—United Nations forces were reported making a fighting retreat southward on both sides of the big Changjin reservoir.

Major Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, MacArthur's G-2 boss, assessed the war situation for correspondents in a 2,500-word statement in Tokyo, and then submitted it to questioning.

Asked if there were any targets in North Korea suitable for attack with the A-Bomb, Willoughby said:

"I would prefer not to answer. In any case, I am not prepared to accept this situation as one of a desperate nature calling for desperate measures."

The question was prompted by President Truman's declaration Thursday that atomic weapons are under consideration for use if necessary against the Chinese.

This briefing of war correspondents in Tokyo came as the retreating U. N. Forces on the northwest took positions on a line 30 miles north of the former Red Korean capital, Pyongyang.

Willoughby said prisoners indicated the Chinese, possibly under the command of Red Gen. Liao Piao, were trying to drive the Allies back below the 38th parallel—100 air miles south of the present northwest line.

In the northwest, two Marine pilots reported American Seventh Infantry Division elements were retreating south along the east side of Changjin reservoir.

The fliers said the U. S. First Marine Division's fifth regiment was fighting its way southward on the west side of the lake.

AP Correspondent Tom Stone said the pilots predicted both the Marines and Doughboys would reach Hagaiu.

The forces attacking the Marines and Seventh Division were part of an estimated 80,000 or more Chinese in the northeast sectors.

At advanced Eighth Army headquarters in the northwest sector where 200,000 Chinese are reported in the match, AP Correspondent (Turn to Page Eight)

President Truman said yesterday active consideration is being given to use of the A-bomb if necessary although its use has not been authorized so far.

MacArthur said there is no sign that Russian divisions are being mobilized on the Siberian border. The magazine made MacArthur (Turn to Page Eight)

LOST HUNTER FOUND IN DUBOIS DISTRICT

DuBois, Dec. 1—(AP)—Firemen and state police hacked through three miles of ice and snow covered trees to rescue an 18-year-old hunter who was missing for 24 hours.

Chas. Lundberg of Lanes Mills, was brought out of the snow covered mountains five miles north of here yesterday.

He was found about 15 miles from where he was last seen. He suffered exposure and frozen feet.

Second Division Pulls Back North Of Pyongyang With Most Of Its Equipment

On the Sukchon-Pyongyang Road, Northwest Korea, Dec. 1—(AP)—The U. S. Second Division's 23rd regiment pulled back north of Pyongyang today with most of its equipment and in good shape.

"We had some enemy behind us, but we were never surrounded," Capt. J. H. King of Casa Grande, Ariz., related alongside this dusty, clogged road.

"Our combat effectiveness right now is as good as any unit. Considering that we are in retreat, the morale of our men is good. Yesterday when we broke through the enemy near Kulu, the men didn't want to pull out."

King and two companion officers, Capt. Joseph Power of Tagoma and Capt. George Tassey of Savannah, Ga., agreed the withdrawal was the most orderly they had ever seen.

Powers commented, "even in the states during maneuvers, withdrawal did not go so smoothly."

The men were tired, dirty and unshaven. But infantrymen who a few hours earlier were in combat joked with each other as they got back aboard their trucks.

King said that with a "normal" supply, ammunition, protection of the regiment's flank and normal replacements they would still be around Kulu.

Tassey agreed and called attention to the estimated divisions of enemies opposing them. He added, "it would have been a losing battle."

Detroit's "Grand Prize Baby" Is Son Of A Negro Father And A White Mother

Detroit, Dec. 1—(AP)—Detroit's "grand prize baby" is the son of a negro father and a white mother.

That's the way the "Better Baby" contest of the Detroit Junior Board of Commerce came out last night.

Top award went to 29-month-old Lester H. Messengill, whose father is a foundry worker for the Ford Motor Co. and whose mother is a former WAC.

Baby Lester was adjudged the winner at a public ceremony in convention hall on a point basis in which the governing factors were "health, beauty and popularity."

Lester was first in a field of 5,244 baby rivals. "Health and beauty" ratings

Sharp Increase In Food In Storage Houses In Penn'a

State on Oct. 31 totaled 1,067,000 bushels compared with 140,000 on September 30, the survey revealed. The gain came during the peak picking season for winter apples. Observers said a large number of stored apples from the total commercial crop of 6,930,000 bushels are being held for processing, and many will move into consumer retail channels for the holiday season. The October 31 holdings are about average for the date, 1945-49.

Heavy supplies of dressed poultry coming now from Pennsylvania farms are reflected in the October advance of 2,124,000 pounds in cold storage holdings to 8,031,000 pounds. Broiler chickens are plentiful and surplus supplies are going into storage for later withdrawal, the Department said.

At the same time there were heavy withdrawals of shell eggs from Pennsylvania cold storage houses. Supplies decreased by 24,000 cases of 30 dozen each during the month, leaving only 11,000 cases on October 31. Frozen eggs stood at 4,291,000 pounds, a decrease of 1,312,000 pounds.

At the end of the month creamery butter totaled 2,183,000 pounds, a drop of 54,000 pounds during the month. Cheese advanced to 5,127,000 pounds, an increase of 232,000 pounds.

Barnes Residents On Vacation From Work In Venezuela

Barnes, Nov. 30.—Raymond Alting, on vacation from his work in the oil fields of Venezuela, South America, accompanied by his wife, arrived Monday from Russellville, Ark., after an eventful trip occasioned by the storm. They started their journey by plane but were grounded in Illinois and resumed their journey by train.

Lt. James Lyle, of the U. S. Navy, Mrs. Lyle and their children, Mickey, Susan and Mary Ellen, arrived from Staten Island, N. Y., Thursday morning to spend the holiday weekend visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lyle. The return trip Sunday took 18 hours and they found much damage had been done to their home by the storm.

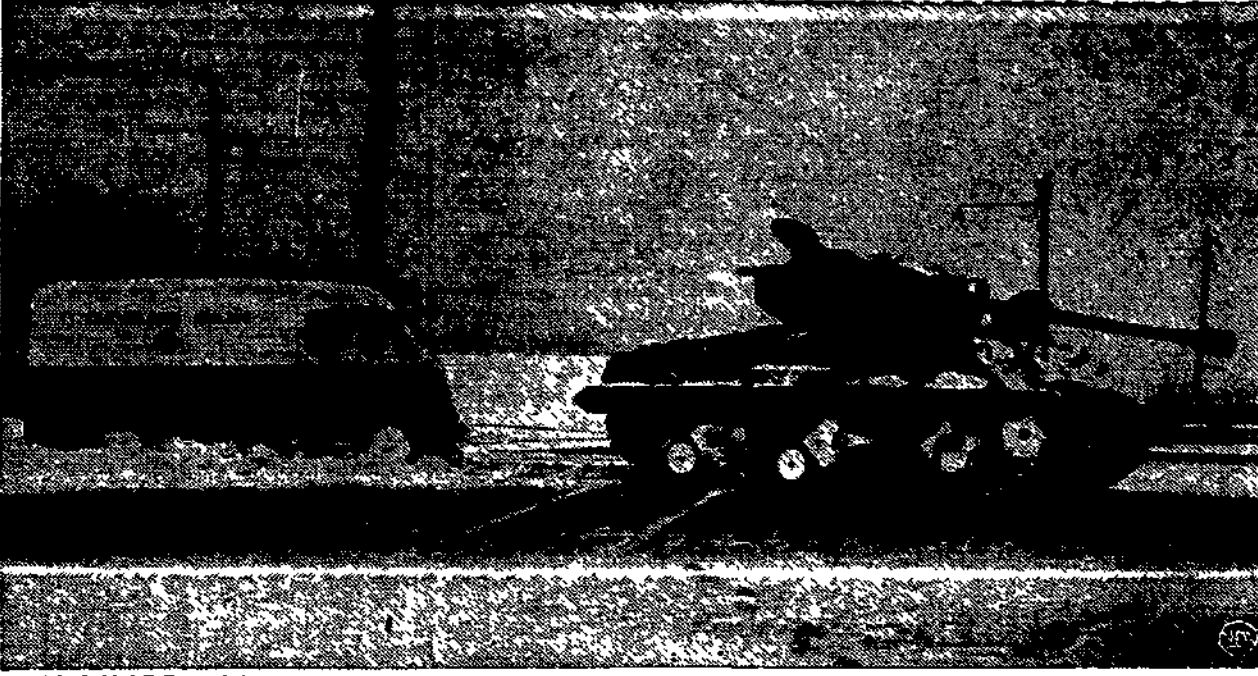

Mrs. William Klenbauer, Oil City, has been a guest at the Lyle home for the past few days.

Hugh Green, Jr., and Marcia Green arrived from Alexandria, Va., Thursday, and their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Cook accompanied them when they returned home Saturday morning. Word received from them indicates they traveled as far as Everett, Penna., where they stayed that night, going on to Alexandria the following day. Mrs. Leon Roberts, Bruce and Beverly Roberts, Erie, were guests at the Cook home Thursday and Friday. The entire company enjoyed a belated Thanksgiving dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Titus in Warren, Friday.

Ruthie Slivis spent the Thanksgiving weekend in Washington, D. C., visiting her friend, Miss Nadia O'Shay. She was detained there until Tuesday on account of the storm.

Rachel Barnes was discharged from Warren General Hospital Friday morning, and left immediately for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Kite in Waterford.

Mrs. Mary Lindstrom, Erie, has been the guest of her parents, Mr.

Little-Known Tibet Has Retained Its Isolation From World Many Centuries

Lofty Tibet, a medieval land thrust suddenly into headlines by Chinese Communist invasion, and locally by the lecture Tuesday night at the Woman's Club by Lowell Thomas, Jr., is far stranger in fact than its exotic but fictional counterpart, the "Shangri-La" popularized by novelist James Hilton.

ad Mrs. Harry Slivis, for the past several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard McDonald and daughter, Gail, Buffalo, N. Y., were weekend guests at the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Holden.

Nancy Miller, Allegheny College, who spent her Thanksgiving vacation with her mother, Mrs. Ruth T. Miller, and her grandmother, Mrs. D. R. Titus, had as her guest a classmate, Betty Greenlund, Harrisburg. The girls returned to Meadville Monday. The Titus home was the scene of a delightful dinner party Thanksgiving Day. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Titus, Bradford; their son, Dean Titus, of Allegheny College; Mr. and Mrs. David Titus, Warren; Mr. and Mrs. William Titus and family and Harriet Titus, Bradford; Nelle Titus, who teaches in Corry.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shaw, Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mayer, of Shemeld, were Thanksgiving guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Duck in Kane.

Mrs. H. S. Roberts was discharged from Warren General Hospital, Thursday and was the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. S. Brown, in Shemeld until Monday, when she was returned to her home here.

Lloyd Huston, surgical patient in Warren General Hospital, is recovering very satisfactorily and expects to be brought home the last of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Piazza, Fredonia, visited him at the hospital Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymon Billstone accompanied his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Billstone, Clarendon, to Titusville Thanksgiving Day, to be guests of relatives. The Raymon Billstones went on to Oil City, where they visited briefly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand R. Hover.

Randolph Roberts familiarly known as Dolph, of Panama City, Fla., arrived here Monday evening for an indefinite visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hahn. This is Mr. Roberts' first visit to his home town in over 20 years.

Ronald Allen, employed in Erie, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Allen, Sr., over the weekend.

There were 20 present at the dinner held in the Methodist church basement for officials and workers of the church. The choir had charge of the coffee and serving. There were no services in the local church Sunday morning on account of weather conditions.

Little-Known Tibet Has Retained Its Isolation From World Many Centuries

Tibet is one of the least known and most isolated nations in the modern world, noted the National Geographic Society. For centuries this "Forbidden Land" of central Asia has remained aloof from other nations — and seemingly from time itself—behind the protective encirclement of the Himalayas and other towering mountain ranges.

Shaggy yaks and sure-footed donkeys and ponies are Tibet's only means of transport. There are no railways, airfields, or motor roads. Communication links with the outside world consist of a few state-owned radio sets and a single telephone and telegraph line from the capital city of Lhasa to northern India. This line is cut at times by roving bandits.

Tibet's borders are ill defined in some areas. For instance, the eastern boundary with China's Sikkim Province is the subject of an ancient dispute. Consequently the size of Tibet has been variously estimated at from 463,000 square miles to a considerably larger figure. In much of this territory even the plains and valleys are over 15,000 feet high.

Uncertainty also exists regarding the number of Tibetans. The best estimate is about three million. Most of them live in towns and trading centers in the southern part of the country, such as Lhasa, Shigatse and Gyangse, and in the lower areas where such staple crops as barley and peas can be grown. Many of the people are nomads, wandering about the high plateaus in search of forage for the hardy yak.

Their country is the homeland of Lamaistic Buddhism, the religion which seems so inexplicable to the Western mind. Its strong belief in reincarnation is emphasized in the person of Dalai Lama, supposedly a divine being and godking of the state. When the Dalai Lama dies Tibetans believe his spirit enters into a new-born child. Elaborate procedures, including consultation with the state oracle, are undertaken by the holy men before searching the nation for the chosen child.

The present Dalai Lama assumes full power next year upon reaching his eighteenth birthday. His government is theocratic, or church directed. Each important state administrative position is held by two men, one a monk and one a layman, and the monk generally has control. It has been estimated that one out of every four males in Tibet joins a holy order. Monasteries are in every town and dot the mountainsides.

Lhasa, the capital, is their holy city. Annually at the Tibetan New Year in February thousands of monks and pilgrims come there for religious celebrations, greatly expanding the normal population, estimated as high as 50,000. On a near-by hillside is the massive Potala, official residence of the Dalai Lama. Atop its roofs are the tombs of former rulers, which have been richly ornamented with gold and precious stones.

The influence of Tibetan religion extends into various parts of Asia, including some of the Chinese provinces. It is anti-communist, which may be one reason for the invasion. The western Chinese Reds have a "divine" lama of their own, whom they would perhaps install at Lhasa in place of the present boy ruler. Nearly all Tibetan farm land is owned by the church or the nobles. Tenants farm on a share-crop basis. But the relative sparseness of the population assures subsistence for nearly everyone. The population of Tibet is believed to be decreasing because of the large proportion of celibate monks and the tendency in lower classes toward polyandry, a marital system whereby two or more brothers have the same wife.

Interesting Girl Scout Ceremonial Is Held At Ludlow

Ludlow, Dec. 1.—In a Girl Scout ceremonial held at headquarters, Mrs. Enoch Nelson, Neighborhood program consultant, presented trefoil pins to Geraldine Nystrom and Cathleen Burns, welcoming them into the Scouts. Serving as the color guard were Katherine Kontas, Rose Servedio and Nancy Ramonda.

A Thanksgiving program was given under the direction of Patrol Leader Frances Schuster, in which all the girls participated. Thanksgiving napkins were made by the arts and crafts patrol, of which Doris Johnson is leader. All girls were reminded by the (Turn to Page Eleven)

MAIDS AND SOCIAL SECURITY

Some people are getting a bit wild-eyed over paying social security taxes on household workers next year. It's not so much the money they must pay as the mathematics and red tape involved. One housewife was heard to exclaim: "I know I'd never be able to figure it out! I do believe I'll have to let my maid go!"

According to one of our Washington correspondents a group of government officials had a press conference recently and explained what has to be done by all concerned, and it really isn't so bad.

If you have in your regular employ a household worker (maid, laundress, housekeeper, cook, nursemaid, gardener, furnace man, valet, chauffeur, and the like) you should do certain things.

First, send your name now—or as soon as you can—to the Collector of Internal Revenue in your district and tell him you employ a household worker.

The easiest way to do this is to visit a post office and pick up a small blue booklet entitled "Do You Have a Maid?" It contains a postcard that you can fill out and mail. This puts you on the mailing list.

After you get on the mailing list, you will receive a larger pamphlet giving details of the program.

Next year, at three-month intervals, you must send to the collector an amount equal to 3 per cent of the cash wages you have paid the worker during the preceding quarter.

Half of this payment is obtained by deducting 1½ per cent from the wages every payday, starting in January. You provide the other half yourself. Or, if you want to, the law says you may provide the whole 3 per cent out of your pocket.

An example: Suppose you have a part-time maid and pay her $15 a week. You deduct 1½ per cent each week, or 22½ cents. (To take 1½ per cent of an amount, multiply it by .015). You add 22½ cents to this. That makes 45 cents a week you must pay the government. But you don't pay it until the end of the quarter.

Since there are 13 weeks in a quarter, your quarterly payments will be $5.85.

Your first payment must be made by April 30, for the January-February-March quarter.

Not all household workers will be covered by social security. You send no tax on a worker unless you have paid the worker at least $50 in the quarter, and unless she (or he) has worked for you on some portion of at least 24 different days in that same quarter, or 24 days in the quarter just before it. That means about two days a week.

If you are a household worker, your only task is to get a social security card.

DON'T LET DEATH TAKE YOUR HOLIDAY!

Once again American armed forces are in action trying to protect and uphold the ideal of freedom. Once again the spirit of Christmas will be mocked by the hate and bloodshed of the battlefield.

In many American homes the roar of the cannon will make it hard to hear the ringing of Christmas bells. That is to be deeply regretted, but throughout history the torch of man's dignity and freedom has been held aloft only through the sacrifice of its bearers.

We can do little to prevent such personal tragedies. But we can do a lot to prevent another kind of tragedy which is equally poignant at the Christmas season—and more cruel because it is needless.

We refer to the preventable tragedy of accidents. The National Safety Council has called for intensive accident prevention effort during the holidays—usually a very dangerous period of the year.

This is an objective which has our whole-hearted support, not only because it is better to have a joyous Yuletide, but also because we cannot afford to waste the resources of manpower and material so necessary these days to our national strength.

The waste is enormous—much more than most persons realize. The American Medical Association has shown that accidents rob the nation of more working years than any disease, because accidents strike all age groups, not just those whose productive years are largely behind them.

The traffic accident problem this year is serious, with a death toll of 35,000 in prospect. That would be the largest number of automobile victims since the record year of 1941.

Rigid enforcement of the laws by state, county and municipal police, plus individual determination to play it safe, can keep the Christmas spirit—and all of us—alive this year.

Balance of Power in Congress Falls to Southern Democrats

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Political power of the Southern Democrats will be greater in the coming 82nd Congress than ever before. They will not only hold the balance of power between conservative Republicans and the combination of New Dealers and progressive Republicans which sometimes vote together, they have also gained chairmanships on important congressional committees.

Senators and congressmen don't always vote consistently, nor do they vote in solid blocs. There is always a lot of maverick straying off the political range by individual congressmen, for reasons perhaps best known to some of their constituents.

A careful analysis of voting records of the old-timers and political speeches of the newcomers does, however, indicate trends. And the trend for the 82nd Congress lines up about like this: Take the Senate. Of the 47 Republicans in the next Senate, 33 may be classified as GOP conservatives. Eleven are what you might call middle-of-the-roads. They are sometimes referred to as liberal Republicans and they do vote with the Democrats on some more progressive measures, or on foreign policy.

Of the 49 Democrats in the next Senate, only 21 may be classified as voting more or less consistently for the New Deal or Fair Deal program. Eleven Democrats—including five from the South—sometimes vote with the liberal Democrats, sometimes with the conservatives. They are liberals on foreign policy, conservative on civil rights and the more extreme Fair Deal proposals.

BUT the real power in the next Senate lies with the 17 remaining Democrats who may be counted on to vote more or less consistently against the Truman administration proposals. When these 17 Democrats vote with the 35 Republican conservatives in the next Congress they will have a majority of 52 to 44.

These 17 conservative Democrats more than offset the 11 liberal Republicans who sometimes vote with the Democrats. These 17 Democrats also more than offset the combination of the 11 liberal Republicans plus the five Southern senators who sometimes vote liberal.

In this group you also have six important committee chairmen: Ellender (succeeding Thomas of Oklahoma), Agriculture; Russell (succeeding Tydings of Maryland), Armed Services; McKellar, Appropriations; McClellan, Expenditures; George, Finance; McCarran, Judiciary.

THE situation in the House is not so easy to analyze because of the larger membership, the greater independence of action, and 66 new members. But roughly the situation breaks down about like this: Republicans, 199; Democrats, 236, if you include Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., the Democrat-Liberal Party congressman. Of the 236 Democrats, 119—or two more than half—are from the Southern states. This is barely enough to give them control in party caucus, if they should ever vote in sectional lines.

On an average of 15 key votes in the last session of Congress, there were approximately 110 Democrats and 10 Republicans who voted for the Truman program. There was an equal number, 50 Democrats and 70 Republicans, who voted regularly against Truman proposals. About 100 Democrats and 90 Republicans split their votes.

In the last election, the Republicans' gain of 28 seats may be presumed to be at the expense of Truman Democrats. So the ratio in the new House would become approximately 90 pro-Trumanites to 150 anti-Trumanites, assuming the former ratio of vote splitters remained.

On committee chairmanships, Southern Democrats will hold nine out of the 19 top positions, plus, presumably, the Speakership of the House, with Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Philomel Program Is Well Attended

Despite the continued cold and heavy snow, there was a good sized turnout for the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Philomel Club, held in the second floor parlors of the Woman's Club.

Jean Robertson, program chairman, outlined the theme, "Mountain Peaks," and the periods of time represented by the masters and their chosen works. Program numbers were as follows:

French Suite in G—Allemande, Courante, Sarabande, Gavotte—J. S. Bach—Helen Potter.

Agnus Dei from Bach's B minor mass—Violet Borg.

Intermezzo, Opus 116, No. 4 by Brahms—Jean Robertson.

Traume, Wagner; Du bist die Ruh, Schubert—Barbara DeFrees.

Nocturne in A flat, Chopin—Marian Wendell.

Valse in C sharp minor, Chopin—Norme Granquist.

Non so piu from "Marrage de Figaro," Mozart—Teresa Fino.

Thirty-two variations, in C minor, Beethoven—Eleanor Swanson.

The tea hour arrangements were in charge of Mrs. J. R. Sugerman and her committee, with Mrs. Richard Costley and Mrs. L. M. McConnell presiding.

WARREN GRANGE

Members of Warren Grange No. 1025, will hold their regular meeting in the South Side hall at 8 p. m. Monday and all are reminded to bring samples of Christmas decorations, favors or gifts which may be easily made for the home economics display.

Marital Happiness Depends On Living Up to One's Ideals

YOUR happiness in marriage depends, in large measure, on the extent to which you live up to your own ideas of your role as a husband or wife.

That is the surprising finding of Dr. Robert S. Orr of Wabash College who has been making a study of happiness in marriage.

It may explain, in part, why so many wives seem to be unhappy without much cause; why their unhappiness often seems all out of proportion to the trivial complaints they make against their husbands.

Their dissatisfaction may be based not on the failure of the men they married as husbands but on their own failure to live up to their ideas of the kind of wives they meant to be.

It wouldn't hurt any wife, who knows she isn't as happy as she could or should be, to take a sheet of paper and write down on it the qualities she thinks are important in a wife.

CHECK YOURSELF AGAINST LIST

SHE should go over that list and ask herself honestly how her own behavior as a wife stacks up with the way she thinks a wife should be and do.

If she has to admit that she falls far short of approaching her own ideas of what a wife should be, then perhaps she has found the reason for her unhappiness.

Then she can try to root out her dissatisfaction with her marriage by trying to change herself, rather than by wishing her husband were different, or by trying to change him.

Evening of Fun for Civic Club Event

From eight until twelve Monday night in the community house is the time and place set for the annual Ladies' Night entertainment of the North Warren Civic Club.

Serving under the general chairmanship of Harold Maeder, the following are rounding out last minute details of what promises to be an evening filled with fun and entertainment: Plue Wendelboe, Ted Peterson, Carl Engle and Elvins Sanden.

The Civic Club board members have the assignment of providing refreshments for the party, these members being Gerald Rickerson, president; Myron Jewell, vice president, and William Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

There will be games of all kinds, movies, round and square dancing and club members and their ladies are looking forward to a very pleasant evening.

Stenographer's Club Gives Alumni Dinner

Stenographers' Club members of Warren High School entertained members of last year's club at an alumni tureen dinner in the school cafeteria at 6:30 p. m. Thursday.

The club had a double objective for the party. The members wished to enjoy a social evening with their schoolmates of last year, and they wanted to gain vocational information from the alumni. During the evening they heard the advice of those already employed, so that they might profit from the experiences of the older girls.

Invitations had been sent to the guests by Mary Hibner and Joan Holmberg; Twila Hildum, Alice Morrison, and Dora Pace set up and arranged the tables; Patricia Burdick, Mary Henning, Marilyn Lyke, Joan Massa, Anne Nobles, and Carole White were in charge of cleaning up after the party.

Basketball Dance To Benefit Beauty Team

It is anticipated that Beauty Junior High School students will be out in full force tomorrow night for their annual basketball dance, originally planned for last Saturday and postponed in order not to conflict with the Youth Canteen Vaudeville Show at the Woman's Club.

There will be dancing in the gym from eight until eleven o'clock to the music of Robert Ebach and his Moonlighters, student dance orchestra, with proceeds going to the Beauty basketball team's fund.

Gary Ettinger is handling publicity and tickets for the affair, with Robert Koebley heading the entertainment committee and Jack Donaldson in charge of refreshments.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Donick, 21 Tan street, Sheffield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Ann, to LaRue I. Croman, son of Mrs. Odessa Croman, Williamsport, and Raymond C. Croman, Ithaca, N. Y. No date has been set for the wedding.

SORORITY PLANS FOR DOLL PROJECT DISPLAY

Beta Eigma Phi Sorority members, in a meeting held at the home of Miss Margaret Petersen, Plum street, concluded plans for its doll project. The doll, complete with wardrobe, is to be displayed in the Wendelboe store during the week of December 4.

The topic for the evening, "Happiness Through Self Estimate," was given by Miss Doris Peterson and was thoroughly enjoyed by the group. After adjournment, the hostess served refreshments.

WILLING WORKERS PLAN ANNUAL PARTY

Willing workers of Salem Evangelical United Brethren church will hold their monthly meeting in the church parlors at 8 p. m. Monday in the form of their annual Christmas party with the Onward Class. Each person attending is asked to bring a gift, wrapped in white, for a child at the Lewisburg Orphans Home. A large attendance of both classes is hoped for.

JOINT PTA MEETING

Sugar Grove, Dec. 1—The December meeting of the Sugar Grove-Farmington Joint PTA will be held with the Farmington-Sugar Grove grade unit in the local school auditorium at 8 p. m. Monday, when a Christmas program will be presented.

WILTSLIE AND SOCIETY

Members of the Wiltslie Ladies Aid Society are asked to bring 25-cent gifts for the regular meeting to be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eloff Lundmark, 20 Maple street, Jamestown. Mrs. Erling Lundberg will be the co-hostess.

MISSIONARY EVENT

Audience Enthusiastic In Its Acclaim Of Aaron Rosand's Mastery of Violin

Ninety-nine percent of the time, any crowd at a recital will leave the auditorium with mixed reactions. Some will be mildly enthusiastic, some will be more or less indifferent, and some will be downright dissatisfied.

As nearly as this reviewer can tell, there was no dissension in the audience which heard Aaron Rosand play his violin recital at the Woman's Club last evening. All were in the wildly enthusiastic bracket.

It has not been Warren's fortune to hear violin playing of the caliber of last night's performance for many years. Not since Isaac Stern appeared here as a rising young star has there been such a display of fiddle virtuosity.

Playing with a minimum of histrionics, but with all the fire and emotion any listener could wish, Mr. Rosand was well received from his first number throughout the program. Some doubt had been expressed because of his youth, but a maturity seldom heard from a youngster was evident throughout the evening.

Mr. Rosand needs a few rough spots polished off, but his work is characterized by clean attacks, superb bowing and a singing tone which few achieve.

The artist is a quietly confident young man who knows he is headed for the top.

In his opening number, Vitali's "Chaconne" he immediately demonstrated his mastery by exceptionally fine octave work. Progressing through the program, he played the Wieniawski Concerto with all the finish one could desire. This is an especially difficult work, and a true test of a player's ability.

The "Jamaican Rumba" and "Guitarre" were probably the numbers which pleased the crowd most. In the "Guitarre," the harmonics were well played. In fact, Mr. Rosand left nothing undone which could be done with a violin.

He closed his program with his own arrangement of the "Carmen Fantasy," a distinctly different one than is usually heard. His

The Changing Landscapes

HAROLD W. GEIGER

Hello, folks. Well, there is very little question that the title of this column is appropriate this week. The snow has changed the general appearance for the present but when it is gone, will your fields look the way they did before it snowed or will there be gullies where melting snow washed down across the slopes?

The other day while hunting deer I traveled a woods road that was in good shape a month ago. Last week's snow and the rain on Saturday washed gullies a foot deep in this road. Woodland usually produces very little surface runoff—so you can figure what damage to our precious topsoil in open fields may have resulted.

The diversions constructed this year will in most cases pay for themselves this next spring in saving the soil, lime and the fertilizer that would normally be washed off the fields by spring thawing. Anyone having doubts on this should

MARRIAGE LICENSE

A marriage license application was filed at the Court House yesterday by LeRoy Allen Marti and Syllis Jean Snow, both of Warren.

WITH PNEUMONIA

Albert Johnson, 15½ North Carlisle street, is confined to his home by an attack of pneumonia. His many friends will be interested to learn that he is recovering satisfactorily.

SCHOOL BOARD

A variety of items, including any routine matters, will come before school board members at their December meeting at the high school at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

TRUCK COLLECTIONS

City police are about town today, collecting the take from city parking meters. It hardly seems worth the trouble this week, because few have paid much attention to meters, and police have been somewhat lenient in the matter of red tickets.

CRIME RECORD

City police records show an unusual feature for November accident list. Although there were accidents which caused an estimated $4,152 in property damage, there were no motorists injured, pedestrians struck and no bicycles involved. By contrast, November of 1949 listed 12 accidents with three injured, one pedestrian struck, and property damage of $3,250.

CARS COLLIDE

Cars operated by Stephen Cosmano, 214 Madison avenue, and W. Syd Clinger, 318 Conewango avenue, collided at Fourth and Liberty about 1:30 p. m. yesterday. One was injured, and damage is estimated at $230. Cosmano is driving each on Fourth and Clinger south on Liberty when the collision occurred.

CHICAGO MEETING

Dr. Carl E. Whipple, superintendent of schools in Warren borough, is in Chicago today and tomorrow to attend the meeting of the National PTA legislative committee. Chosen because he is the Pennsylvania state legislative chairman last year, Dr. Whipple has been asked to represent the state legislative chairman at this national conference.

CHOIR HEARD

Warren High School students heard a program by the second choir in song assemblies held this morning. Martin Carlson was narrator of an original story by Hart Kornreich, linking the songs with incidents in a plot of young couple separated by war. Raldine Aquist and Robert Maer read the parts of Betty and Bob, the young couple, and Stavala Fanos was the choir's accompanist.

OLD PICTURE

In line with old school pictures which have appeared recently in the Times-Mirror, Lt. Ray Eckardt, of the city police, has in his collection several. One shows the grade of 1888 at the old Central school on Hickory street. Included in the picture are Mrs. Ada Bennett, Will Hartman, Ed Beck, Ellis Mitchell, Eugene McLaren, and Ethel Folkman. Lt. Eckardt did not know the name of the teacher.

OUTPUT DROPS

Production in the Bradford field during the past four weeks shows a decline as the result of the Thanksgiving holiday. The average oil per day for the period Oct. 24 to Nov. 24 was 27,925 barrels daily, according to the Bradford Field Pennsylvania Oil Producers Association. This was a decline of 936 barrels below the daily average production of 28,861 barrels during the period Sept. 24 to Oct. 27. Production in the Bradford field last week averaged 20,118 barrels daily.

Unless otherwise stated, funeral hours at Warren's funeral home are from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

TIMOTHY ALAN LINDSEY
Timothy Alan Lindsey, small son of Robert L. and Geraldine Bradford Lindsey, 10 Sixth avenue, died at the family home at 12:45 a. m. today. He was born July 4, 1946.
Besides his parents, he leaves his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lindsey, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bradford, Warren; and great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Graham, Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey, Sheffield.
Services in his memory will be held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bradford, 1501 Pennsylvania avenue, east, at two o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. Edward K. Rogers, pastor of First Lutheran church, will officiate and interment will be in Fentonville cemetery. Removal will be made by the Lutz-VerMilyea funeral home to the grandparents' residence at 8:30 a. m. Saturday.

EVERETT A. LUZADER
Private services were held at the Lutz-VerMilyea funeral home at two o'clock Thursday afternoon for Everett A. Luzader, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Luzader, 204 North Carver street. The Rev. Milton J. Perry, pastor of First Baptist church, officiated for the rites. Interment will be made at Harrisville, W. Va., at the convenience of the family.

EUGENE DONNELLY
Word was received in Warren last night of the death of Eugene Donnelly, which occurred at nine o'clock in a Shamokin Hospital. Brother of Thomas J. Donnelly, Madison avenue, this city, his funeral will be held Monday morning.

The Man Who Beat Jones

A dark horse, William MacFarlane, of New York, won the Notional Open Golf Championship in a dramatic upset at Worcester, Mass., in June, 1925. No one had considered him a serious threat to any of the better known top notchers such as Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen. MacFarlane, in order to win had to overcome a terrific lead of four strokes that Jones was ahead at the second extra round, after each had played an even 72 for the early morning 18 holes.

It was generally thought by the critics that MacFarlane would crack from the strain of the morning's tie score, but the afternoon play-off proved otherwise. MacFarlane dropped a stroke on the fourth, fifth, eighth and ninth holes, which gave Jones his lead of four. That was when Mac started to fight. He got a birdie two on the tenth, another birdie two on the thirteenth. It was neck and neck until the eighteenth when Jones missed a 10-foot putt by a few inches. MacFarlane, 72 to Jones 73, became the champion by ONE stroke.

Intelligence Officer Says Atom Bomb Not Needed

dent Don Huth reported an estimated 10,000 Chinese had crossed the winding Chongchong river with heavy materiel and were moving south.

Another Red Force of undetermined size and supported by armor was reported across the river at Kunu, 17 miles inland from the Yellow Sea.

Both Chinese forces were under air attack. Results were not reported by late Friday evening.

Korea's President Syngman Rhee advocated using the A-bomb in North Korea. He suggested in an interview at Seoul that the Allies should use "old-style" atomic bombs such as the ones that pulverized Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, just before World War II ended.

Rhee said he had been considering an appeal to Mr. Truman to use the A-bomb.

Willoughby told war reporters he did not care to discuss use of the A-bomb.

He said the Allied position along the icy Chongchong river in the northwest is being stabilized and added that when the time comes the United Nations forces would strike back against the Reds.

He said Allied intelligence always knew the size of Chinese elements across the Yalu river boundary of Red Manchuria and Korea and that the numbers of armies and divisions were known as well as their commanders and much of their history.

"An old ruse," he said, describing the release of 27 wounded Americans the day before Thanksgiving.

"It was designed to make us think they were withdrawing after having made a token gesture."

More Companies To Follow Big Steel Wages

poration of Pittsburgh, fourth largest steel producer, scheduled a resumption of its wage talks with the Steelworkers today.

A spokesman indicated J. & L. will go along with pace-setting U. S. Steel.

Murray, president of both the CIO and the Steelworkers, flashed the green light to his negotiating teams to resume bargaining with 1,400 large and small steel companies throughout the country.

Murray left little doubt he expected all of them to sign on the dotted line quickly.

The Steelworkers' contract runs until January 1, 1952.

Many thousands of white-collar workers and others who are not members of the Steelworkers are expected to get raises in line with that granted the powerful CIO union.

As a matter of fact, U. S. Steel President Benjamin F. Fairless said this increase already is in the works.

Situation Critical, Not Hopeless, MacArthur

ur's cabled comments available for immediate publication even though they will not appear in the magazine until next Monday.

MacArthur said he expected the now bogged-down winter offensive of his United Nations forces in Korea to be a "decisive action" when he ordered it started in October 20.

He said the offensive was "the only one which the situation permitted."

If he had waited until spring MacArthur said, the Chinese Communists would have had an opportunity to mass their forces for a demolishing attack.

He said there was every assurance the enemy would "jump off" just as soon as a satisfactory military balance had been achieved, without awaiting for the advent of spring.

MacArthur said all his operations are reported to and approved by Washington and the United Nations before they are launched.

The president said virtually the same thing yesterday—that MacArthur discusses the situation daily with U. S. and U. N. authorities in this country.

MacArthur indicated he did not have full knowledge of Chinese Red strength before launching his offensive.

BAKED apples, stuffed with nuts, egg white and brown sugar or with jam mixed with melted butter, make top desserts. Cranberry cream pie is another winner.

And remember, both apples and cranberries are on the December plentiful list.

Stuffed Apples
(Serves 6)
Six McIntosh apples, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon butter or fortified margarine, 1 cup apple juice or water, stuffing.

Wash and core apples; do not pare. Make 3 or 4 cuts in skin with sharp knife. Place apples in baking dish. Fill cavity of apples with desired stuffing, sprinkle with sugar and dot with butter. Pour liquid over apples.

Cover and bake apples in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 30 to 35 minutes, or until tender basting occasionally. Pour syrup over the apples; serve hot or cold with cream.

Nut Stuffing: Blend 4 to 5 tablespoons chopped (unsalted) nuts into a stiffly beaten egg white; mix with very little brown sugar, if a sweet taste is desired.

Orange or Apricot Jam Stuffing: Add about 6 tablespoons of jam to 1 teaspoon melted butter stirring until smooth.

Here's a luncheon main dish variation:
Sausage Stuffing: Combine 3 to 4 tablespoons sausage meat (Philadelphia Scapple type) with 1 to 2 tablespoons fine bread crumbs; season to taste with salt and marjoram. Do not sprinkle apples with sugar.

Movie Attendance Off 10 to 15 Per Cent In Television Areas, Magnate Declares

Hollywood, Dec. 1.—(P)—Movie attendance is off 10 to 15 per cent in television areas, says Theater Magnate Charles Skouras.

As a result, theaters fighting for their very existence "very soon" will offer programs combining "a good feature picture and television entertainment," he predicts.

Until now, theater men have been shy about public statements concerning TV's inroads on theater attendance. But Skouras, president of the 500-house National Theater Chain, made a surprisingly frank declaration before a meeting of the Hollywood foreign correspondents association yesterday.

"Attendance is off anywhere from 10 to 15 per cent in television areas. Business is off only two to four per cent in areas without television. So we know where to put the blame."

Skouras emphasized that "television is here to stay" and that it is giving "terrible competition to motion pictures."

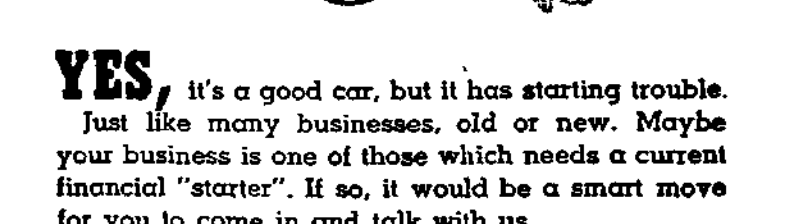

"It stands to reason that if you have a movie at home, you are going to stay home," he remarked. But he added, "we are

THE RAILROAD MURDER CASE

By R. M. Lawrenson
AP Newsfeature

Chapter 30
AN AIR of tension filled the luxurious lounge. The principals in the Richards case awaited the call in various stages of annoyance and apprehension.

Arthur Johnson sprawled in a big chair against the forward partition where he had sat reading on the fatal night. With great concentration he spun a charm about on his watch chain and completely ignored his wife, Dorene, seated beside him.

"I'll be all right, Marc," said Joan quietly. "The sooner you get it over with, the better. If I can help, I'll be glad."

"Thank you, Miss Joan," replied Marc, shedding his coat and hat and dropping them over an end-table.

Nora, with a murmured apology, slipped to the rear of the car and sank demurely into a chair.

"Take it easy, Jerry. You'll bite that story in two," said Marc. "Nuts," snapped Anderson. "I don't set no store by this monkey business anyway."

JOHNSON looked up from his watch chain twirling and asked coldly, "Jordan would you mind enlightening us on the reason for this nocturnal party? Anderson says it's your idea. What do you expect to prove?"

"It's outrageous!" cried Dorene. "What are we, a bunch of crooks to be ordered around by the police?"

"Definitely outrageous," interrupted Arnold. "But if Anderson and Jordan feel they can make any progress—notably lacking to state—we shouldn't begrudge them our co-operation."

"I'd like to know why I'm included," said Miller. "I'm just an innocent bystander."

"Possibly that'll develop as we progress," said Marc. "It's understandable that you're wondering why this consultation has been called. We're going to take up the subject of murder. In particular, the murder of Mr. Richards on this car a few evenings ago. Incidentally, we may delve into history."

Chapter 31
JOHN nodded. "Yes, I know. Mr. O'Connor called me about it this morning."

"To continue," said Marc, "about nine-thirty, you got bored, Miss Joan, so you decided to go to bed. Bidding the men good night, you withdrew to your room, and Miss Arthur followed you."

"The bridge game continued another hour and broke up at about ten-thirty. Alvin immediately left. Mr. Richards and you, Linden, went to your rooms—and presumably to bed."

Linden nodded his head vigorously. "That's right. And I did go to bed at once."

"Hm, yes," murmured Marc. "Possibly you did. Anyway, we're agreed that you went to your room. Johnson said you sat in that same chair you're in now and read. Is that right? Arnold went out at the back platform for a breath of air. Coming in a little later, he smoked for a few minutes, and then he too went to bed, leaving you alone."

Let me see, I believe that time is accurately fixed," Marc consulted his note book. "Yes, eleven-seventeen, according to your watch, Mr. Johnson. Tell me, how did you happen to have that time to such a close, odd minute?"

Johnson shrugged. "You ought to know, Jordan, that these railroad men live by the tick of their watches. Associating with them, I've gotten into the same habit."

"Then tell me something else. Are you familiar with the details of operating this railroad?"

"Not in details," replied Johnson. "In a general way I know how it's run."

"You've been in the signal tower and around on inspection trips with Richards?"

"That's right, I have."

"I see," continued Marc. "Now the train passed Zola Crossing at ten-fifty-eight. That's definitely not going to give up."

The theater magnate traced Hollywood history. He said it took two years for movie bosses to realize the value of sound in films. He said that radio was feared and shunned by Hollywood until it discovered radio could be used to help sell stars and pictures.

"And I hope the motion picture producers will wake up to the fact that television can be used to publicize our pictures," he added.

Skouras also foresees the use of television in theaters. He predicts theater TV is coming "very soon," pending FCC approval.

God's Gift of Life

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

If people in general were not accustomed to taking so much for granted concerning themselves, they would marvel at that mysterious thing that we call "life."

It is, of course, the center and object of unsolved questions and mysteries. What happens, for instance, when the accompanying mystery that we call "death" suddenly occurs, and in a moment what was active, vital and intelligent ceases? In what way has life ceased? What has happened to what a moment ago was so real?

The best answer is that the spirit returns to God who gave it (Ecclesiastes 12:7), but from that mystery itself, I turn to the ever-present, but little considered, mystery of our daily life.

We speak of the physical existence, of our five senses, as if it were only a material thing, but what mysteries are in every moment of our conscious life, and even in the mystery of sleep, when consciousness seems suspended?

Through the study of the ear and eye, and the waves of sound and light that operate upon them, man has achieved the wonders of the telephone, the phonograph, the radio, and television; but man's creations cannot reach to the great Creator of our physical being, and the laws that govern our life.

If men had at all a sensitive understanding of these things, they would bow in wonder and reverence before that Creator, as in fact the Hebrew saints and prophets did. Their distinction was that they thought about life, that they did not take themselves just for what they were, but they looked into the mystery of their being, and so were led to God.

To take this gift of life, and make no return, to fail to use it in any way for the honor and glory of the One who gave it, marks the deepest tragedy of man. And that tragedy is all the deeper, when we turn from the so-called physical life, to consider the spiritual life, the more abundant life, that is also God's gift, God's supreme gift.

How blind and spiritually incompetent the masses of men are, in making so little of God's gifts, not only in their wholesale destruction of physical life, but in ignoring, or refusing, the higher life that God has made possible.

It was the reproach of Jesus to those of His generation, "Ye will not come unto me that ye may have life," and that reproach has been upon those of each succeeding generation. Yet it is true that the gift of God is eternal life, and the evidence of that life are plain in the many who have heard the call of the Master, and have accepted His way of love and life.

This Christian attitude toward life is the fulfillment of what was richest and best in the thought and devotion of the inspired Hebrew writers.

It has its noblest expression in the wonderful 107th Psalm, with its beginning, "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good," and its breaking forth in the intervals of the description of God's dealings with man into the passionate plea: "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and His wonderful works to the children of men!"

Could there be a more proper, or earnest, prayer for mankind? And can there be any nobler, or more fitting, act of man than the devotion of his life to God?

Church Notes

FIRST METHODIST
"Crowded Out" will be Dr. Arthur Colley's sermon theme at the 11:00 o'clock service of morning worship. The choir, under the direction of Byron Swanson, will sing "The Cherry-Tree Carol" (Butcher) and "Christmas Cradle Song" (Schumann) with Monroe Marshall and Mrs. Florence Stevens as soloists. Richard Pratt will play "Pastorale Symphony" by Haydn as his organ number. At 10:00 a. m., church school will convene. Youth Fellowship meeting will be held at 6:30 o'clock with Dr. Colley leading the discussion.

BETHLEHEM COVENANT
In observance of the First Sunday of Advent, Pastor David Carlson has chosen for his sermon subject: "Fulfilled Prophecies" for the 11 a. m. worship service at Bethlehem Covenant church. Holy Communion will be observed. At 7:30 p. m., evangelistic service, the message will be "There's a Great Day Coming". Sunday school meets at 10 a. m. A cordial invitation is extended these services.

1ST PRESBYTERIAN
For the sermon Sunday morning at First Presbyterian church, Dr. Robert S. Steen will have as his topic "As We Forgive" and the junior service will be "The Baptismal Font". The junior sermon is a series which will continue throughout December on the theme, "Our Church". Carroll Fowler will play "Watchmen, Tell Us of the Night" by Bingham for the prelude and "Finale" for the postlude. The senior choir will sing "Cherubim Song" by Bortniansky and "What of the Night" by Thompson. Church school will convene at 10:15 and the nursery will be held during the morning service. Westminster Fellowship will meet in the Craft room at 6:30 with Mary Miller and Stavroula Fanos in charge of the program, the theme of which is "Christian Faith for Today."

GRACE METHODIST
Rev. C. W. Baldwin will speak on the subject, "In The Fulfilling Of Time" at the 11 o'clock Sunday service in Grace church. The junior choir will sing, "Let The Beauty of Jesus" by Jones and "Saviour, Hear Us We Pray" by Brannan. The anthem by the senior choir will be "Delight Thyself In The Lord" by Wilson, with the solo obligato sung by Mrs. Norman Pierce. Church school will convene at 10 a. m.; Youth Fellowship at 6:30 p. m. In the service at 7:30 p. m., the pastor will speak on "The Fifth Gospel."

FIRST BAPTIST
The Lord's Supper will be observed at 11 a. m. Sunday in First Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. Milton G. Perry, giving a communion meditation. The choir, led by Viola Lindmark, will sing "Nearer My God To Thee" by Williams, accompanied by Mrs. Carl Whipple at the organ. For her numbers, Mrs. Whipple will play Chorale: Prelude—"How Brightly Shines the Morning Star" by Olson; offertory, "The Bells of Paradise," English carol, and postlude, "Credo" by Haydn. Children may be left in the nursery. The Evening song service will be held at 7:30, the pastor speaking on "A Christian Attitude Toward Trouble." Mrs. Whipple will play "Prelude from Op. 31, No. 3" Beethoven; "Offertory," Mendelssohn and "Venite" by Hayward. The choir will have a part in the service. Church school will convene at 9:45; B.Y.F. at 6:30, with Charles Smith in charge of the program.

WORLD'S MOST MODERN LIFEBOAT GETS FIRST TRY-OUT IN ENGLAND

FIRST SIGN OF FROST IN PARIS INDICATES IT'S CHESTNUT TIME

Copyright, 1950, by Acme Newspictures

IT'S THE BEST—Going through a trial run at Southampton, England, is the world's most modern lifeboat, the Sir Godfrey Baring, which will be shown at the 1951 Festival of Britain before being ordered to rescue work in the North Sea. The craft features aluminum alloy superstructure, jets for squirting oil on rough seas, and pressure cookers to provide hot food.

ANVIL CHORUS—The early days of iron making in America are described to a group of youngsters by Roland Robbins, right, archeologist for an iron works in Saugus, Mass. The 500-pound iron hammer-head shown, recently hauled up from the banks of the Saugus River, was used at the anvil of America's first iron works, three centuries ago, to pound red-hot iron bars into shape.

NEW ACQUAINTANCE—Starlet Susan Cabot is shown with some new friends of hers in Hollywood. Susan made the acquaintance of the three kittens at the movie studio where she is employed, and Mickey Mouse had better be careful in the future.

ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN—And when two-year-old Ray Brown, of Electra, Tex., lost his trousers, he also lost his composure. But sister Mary Lou put an end to the embarrassing situation with her older experience. The tots had just arrived in New York after visiting relatives on the island of Sardinia, off the coast of Italy.

NEW FRENCH LEADER—French General De La Tour du Moulin, shown in Paris, has been appointed the French Civil Governor of Tonkin, one of the Indo-China states being threatened by Communist-led rebels. He'll be in charge of French troops.

FOLLOWING TRADITION—The first sign of frost in Paris, France, is the signal for the roasted chestnuts to appear on the boulevards. Victor Muzzone, who built his stand on odds and ends in the shape of a locomotive, is shown making a sale to two warmly-clad youngsters.

COME AGAIN—Prisoners in the Regina Coeli Jail, in Rome, Italy, push to the bars of the cells to applaud an orchestra of radio artists who had played for their entertainment. The show was the first attempt to introduce some sort of badly-needed recreational standards in Italian prisons.

ON-THE-SPOT INTERVIEW—Comdr. S.V.B. Theron, left, commander of the Flying Cheetahs, a Union of South Africa fighter squadron, is interviewed by Maj. P. L. McPherran, of the U.S. Army, after arriving with his group at Yokohama, Japan, en route to join UN forces in Korea. (U. S. Army Photo from Acme.)

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS—Evanger Super, a Great Dane owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Evanger of Wheeling, Ill., seems unperturbed by the presence of Thurmers' Cotton, a tiny Chihuahua owned by Tressa Thurmer of Palatine, Ill. They are two of the entries in the 39th annual Dog Show of the Western Specialty Clubs Association in Chicago.

TAKE FLOATER FOR U.S.A.—It's Stanislaw Smolinski of the Displaced Persons team, taking a floater from Cleveland Indians pitcher Bob Feller, as he arrives in New York with his wife, behind bat. Feller is sponsoring the Polish refugee couple through arrangements made by the War Relief Services, National Catholic Welfare Conference, and they'll work on his farm in Ohio.

munions at 8:00 a. m., followed by a breakfast in the parish house. Arrangements for the breakfast are under the direction of Robert E. Dunham, J. S. Pees and George Mattison, co-chairmen of the corporate communion committee. The Bishop's Banks are to be presented at this service, and laymen's work during the coming year will be outlined by Mr. Dunham and the rector.

1ST EVANGELICAL

New members will be received into First Evangelical United Brethren church at the 11 a. m. Sunday service, when the pastor, Rev. A. J. Kimmel, will preach on "My Church", the words of Christ in his address to Peter. The thank-offering service scheduled by the WSW will be postponed until more favorable conditions prevail but the group will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Prayer meeting will be at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, led by Floyd Carter, and The Little Heralds will meet in the Folkman parlors at 2:30 p. m. Friday.

EPISCOPAL MISSIONS

Announced by Vicar William A. Chamberlain, Jr., are the following coming events of the county Episcopal missions: Youngsville—11 a. m. Sunday, morning prayer and sermon conducted by lay readers; 7:30 p. m. Thursday, confirmation instruction class. Kinzua—9 a. m. Sunday, Holy Eucharist; 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, confirmation instruction.

AT ST. PAUL'S

The 10:30 a. m. worship in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday will include Holy Communion and reception of members, with Pastor Nore Gustafson preaching on "The Open Portals of Grace". Harvey Horn will lead the senior choir in "Just As I Am" by Stafford and Mrs. Emil Jacobson will play "Andante con moto" by Gullmair for the prelude; "Prayer" by Wagner for the offertory, and Cesar Franck's "Cantabile" for the postlude. At 7:30 p. m., the missionary Prayer Day program will be presented.

FIRST LUTHERAN

Holy Communion will be administered at eight o'clock Sunday in the First Lutheran church. Pastor Rogers will preach on "Beware of the Crowd" at the eight and 11 o'clock services. Sunday school will meet at 9:45. "Faith Is Essential" will be the subject of the sermon at the vesper service at 7:30. The Intermediate League will meet at six o'clock and the Senior League at 6:30.

Letter Clarifies Scouting Role In Civilian Defense

In a letter received recently by Chief Scout Executive Arthur A. Schuck, President Harry S. Truman clarified the position of the Boy Scouts and Scout leaders in the national and local Civilian Defense program.

He indicates in his letter that it is essential that the Boy Scout movement continue to grow and progress. Through the movement boys will continue to receive the benefits of the character building and citizenship training as well as acquiring the skill which will fit them for emergency service.

Following is a copy of the letter received from President Harry S. Truman:

THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON
November 17, 1950

Dear Dr. Schuck:

Our Nation must increasingly develop its strength in order to play its part in concert with other free nations, in the building of a peaceful world. Our Civil Defense Program is one of its great assets. Another is the vast membership of the Boy Scouts of America.

Your organization has for forty years prepared boys and young men to render service under all conditions. In view of this enviable record, I hope you will encourage your adult volunteer leaders to keep on with their work in their units. Boys will then continue to receive the benefits of Scouting's character building and citizenship training program, and to acquire the skills which fit them for emergency service.

The record of these patriotic and unselfish men is inspiring. The unforseen emergencies that lie ahead are a home front challenge to all Scouts and Scout leaders alike. Continued full strength leadership, all along the line, is of major importance. Your motto "Be Prepared" emphasizes this need and is an assurance that your leaders will wholeheartedly cooperate in meeting it.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) HARRY S. TRUMAN

Letters to the Editor

Warren, Pa. Nov. 30

Dear Mr. Editor,

The storm appears to be over but many of our worthy citizens have not bothered to clean the snow from their sidewalks. I have noticed that the offenders are the same ones who habitually neglect their walks. One can't be too harsh with aged folks who cannot afford to have others do the task for them, but so many offenders are not in that class. When I see some people, women especially, doing their best at clearing the snow away and then find their neighbors showing the usual disregard for their walks, I wonder why they keep shoveling. It must be their self respect and community spirit which keeps the faithful at the task.

Perhaps a few arrests of property owners along much traveled sidewalks in the center of town might give a cooperative urge to the slothful in all parts of the community.

Very truly yours,
Vexed Home Owner.

The Nation Today

BY MAX HALL (FOR JAMES MARLOW)

Washington—(AP)—The news from Korea has knocked this city back on its heels, and maybe the effect has been the same in your neighborhood.

Everywhere are solemn faces, and people saying, "Isn't it terrible?" "Yes, awful, isn't it?" "Where is it going to end?"

In a Washington Department store, a clerk and a woman customer are deep in discussion of the war news, and other women come up, one by one, and stand quietly and listen.

In many a government office there is worried chattering about the crisis.

At the Pentagon and other military buildings, there is great activity, no time for glumness. Conferences are all over the place. Ringing telephones. Brisk walking in corridors.

At the White House and elsewhere, men are wrestling with immense problems affecting the future of this country and the world.

President Truman, the man on whom the heaviest responsibility falls, consults with his chief advisers.

Between times, he finds time to attend parties. Yesterday he went to a luncheon for Attorney General McGrath. Last night he and Mrs. Truman attended a party given by Senator and Mrs. Clinton Anderson (D-NM) at a private club.

At the capitol, the house is idle until Thursday and senators are debating statehood for Alaska and Hawaii with their minds only half on their subject. Their speeches are filled with allusions to the war.

The proposal being debated at great length in the senate is one that appears to have hardly any chance of success during the present short session of congress.

This proposal is: To drop other matters and take up the Alaskan statehood bill, followed by the Hawaiian statehood bill.

The house approved both bills last March, President Truman has asked the senate to do likewise, saying that prompt approval is essential to national security. But there is strong opposition.

If the senate refuses, as seems likely, Hawaii and Alaska must start over in the new congress and win the approval of both the house and senate before they can add any stars to the U. S. flag.

Supports of the bills have tied them to the present war emergency, arguing that statehood would help U. S. security in the Pacific and would advance the cause of self-government and Democracy.

But some senators have used the war emergency as an argument on the other side. They say they can't get excited about statehood bills at this particular breathless moment.

leaders, Mrs. M. I. Jones and Mrs. E. W. Johnson that they must be ready to pass their work for junior citizenship badge on December 5 and every girl must be present.

Planning of Christmas gifts is under way this week, while music, dancing, literature and dramatic patrols are hard at work on an original Christmas play under the direction of Frances Schuster and Katherine Kontas.

Sunday services were canceled at Moriah church because Pastor Hans Pearson was unable to get here by car. Local churches had regular Thanksgiving Day services, with Pastors Hans Pearson and Herman Davidson delivering the sermons.

Mrs. Carl Swanson, Moriah financial secretary, entertained Pastor and Mrs. Hans Pearson and the stewardship committee at her home, with 17 guests present. This concluded the finance drive and all reports were made. The committee included Gustav Olson, Clyde Gilfert, Axel K. Anderson, E. W. Johnson, Emil Nelson, Homer Gilfert, Wm. Hanson, E. O. Nelson, Charles E. Carlson, Evert Johnson, Arthur Christenson, Frank Nelson, John Johnson, Adolph Johnson, Leroy Johnson, Jeltner Mattison and Carl Benson.

Mrs. Emil Nelson, Moriah choir director, urges all choir members to be present at every practice with the Christmas program in mind. E. O. Nelson, Sunday school superintendent, urges all children to be regular in attendance.

Extra Caution For Winter Driving Is Urged By Official

Harrisburg — Earlier hours of darkness and dropping temperatures should serve as fair warnings of rough weather ahead, motor vehicle owners and operators are advised by T. Elmer Transeau, Director of the Bureau of Highway Safety.

"From the lessons of past winter seasons, wise motorists know it pays to change driving habits and to have their vehicles put in shape to drive safely in any kind of winter weather," Transeau said.

He particularly urged car and truck owners to equalize brakes, check headlights and taillights, renew windshield wiper blades that smear, examine exhaust systems and inspect tires and batteries. Any faulty equipment should be repaired or replaced without delay.

"With year-round equipment in good order," he said, "attention should be given to the special equipment needed for winter driving. Tire chains should be carried in every car, ready for quick use whenever severe snow and ice conditions develop. Tests last winter just made public by the National Safety Council, revealed that special winter tread tires do not eliminate the need for tire chains on snow or ice. Some of those tread help a little bit, but their improvement simply is not great enough to warrant less care or recommend precautions.

"Defrosting equipment should be in condition to keep the outside of the windshield free of snow and ice, and the inside free of frost and moisture. The heater should be checked for efficiency, and to be sure there are no leaks, to insure comfort in sub-zero weather and to make sure the defroster will really work.

"Accident tabulations, as studied by the National Safety Council, have shown that the winter auto death rate rises 24 to 53 per cent over the summer rate in the 36 states having ice and snow. Let's all drive carefully this winter. The extra precautions we take in driving will mean lives saved, and those lives can include our own."

1951 Chevrolet To Make Debut Dec. 9

Detroit — New 1951 Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks will go on display simultaneously at 7,690 dealerships on Saturday, Dec. 9.

Announcement of the showings by W. E. Fish, general sales manager of the company, was coupled with an estimate that more than 10,000,000 people will inspect the latest series during the introductory period.

"Reports for the field indicate one of the most successful showings in our history," said Fish. "Not only have we found widespread interest in the new model features, but dealers are working on elaborate programs in connection with the event.

"For the Chevrolet retail organization, the presentation of the 1951 series will come as a climax to its greatest year. Sales during 1950 will establish a new record and once again will top all competition by a substantial margin."

The Spirit of Service

Among telephone men and women, the spirit of service is tradition... and more.

It's the sense of responsibility that makes them spurn personal inconvenience and danger to get to work, and that keeps them on the job with little thought for their own safety.

It's the loyalty to a cause that, in time of trouble, brings former employees back to work to offer their help.

It's the unified determination of telephone men and women to see to it that calls go through... come what may... for they know how vital any call could be.

The great storm that struck much of Pennsylvania put all this to the test again... and again the test was met.

Telephone women throughout the state somehow found their ways to their posts, despite the storm. In Pittsburgh, with transportation completely paralyzed, one of them even plodded eight miles through deepening snow to get to her job.

All over the state, telephone men, braving hurricane winds, rain, sleet, snow, and floods, worked round the clock to repair lines felled by trees and to restore the service.

It is of actions like this that the spirit of service is made.

Civil Defense May Be Hot Issue In Present Session

Washington, Dec. 1 — (P)—A plan to hand the reins of civil defense to a single powerful administrator responsible only to the president may become an issue of heated controversy before the present short session of congress.

Drawn up by the National Resources Security Board, it proposes setting up a civil defense agency headed by a $17,500-a-year chief who would have vast unparalleled powers in the event of an attack on this country.

An administration bill to implement the plan was introduced yesterday in the house of Rep. Durham (D-NC). It was referred to the armed services committee but there were signs that this group would pass it along to the senate-house atomic committee of which Durham is vice chairman.

An administration spokesman said favorable action was hoped for during the present short session of congress.

But a leading Republican lawmaker said in a separate interview there would be a lot of talk about what he called some of the "shocking" provisions of the bill. He didn't want his name used, either.

The measure would give the administrator—a civilian—authority to review the civil defense activities of such key agencies as the military establishment and atomic energy commission and coordinate them with his own program.

He also would have supervisory power over state defense organizations. Through these, his authority would reach to county, city and community set ups.

JOHN ROSEQUIST

Services will be held at the Sage Funeral Home in Tidoute at 2:30 p. m. Saturday for John Rosequist, 82 year old resident of that community, who died Thursday morning following a brief illness. The Rev. H. H. Stevenson, pastor of Tidoute Methodist church, will officiate and interment will follow in Tidoute cemetery.

Mr. Rosequist leaves three sisters, Mrs. Matilda Anderson, Tidoute, Mrs. Maude Kaltenbach, Warren-Jamestown road, and Mrs. Minnie Anthony, Cleveland, O.; also two brothers, Albert and Melvin Rosequist, Tidoute.

very reverse of imperialistic "Delegations here were aware that the most important decisions—such as whether to use the atomic bomb and whether to bomb Manchuria—would be made in Washington. The entire strategy, they felt, would become much more clear after week-end conferences there between President Truman and Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Britain.

They concentrated therefore on the technical aspects of U. N. action—primarily just how to bring the problem before the veto-free assembly for action under the recently-adopted plan for anti-aggression action.

at ending Chinese Communist intervention in Korea and preserving the shaky world peace.

The president already had made clear one vital point—come what may, U. S. forces won't voluntarily be withdrawn from Korea.

EQUIPMENT MOVED

The equipment in the former Colonial Bakery at 111 Pennsylvania avenue west, was moved today in a Masterson Co. truck to 124 North Franklin street in Titusville. It is understood the equipment was purchased by A. R. Hepler, of Tidoute.

PLAN TESTIMONIAL DINNER FOR DOCTOR

It has been learned that officers and members of the Warren County Medical Society are planning a testimonial dinner in honor of Dr. L. E. Chapman, veteran Warren physician, in honor of his recent election as a vice president of the Pennsylvania Medical Society. No date has been set for the affair, but it is expected it will be within the next few weeks.

MEETING POSTPONED

A Roving Scratch of the Military Order of Cooties, scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 3, at Erie, has been postponed indefinitely on account of the bad weather, it was announced today.

FOUND DOG FOUND

A black and tan hound dog, that gives all the appearance of being a very valuable animal, has been found by a local party who is anxious to see that it is returned to the owner. The dog has no license or collar. Information may be had by calling 5589-1-2.

GOP REORGANIZATION

Dr. L. E. Chapman of Warren, is planning to go to Harrisburg next Wednesday to participate in a Republican organization meeting in preparation for the coming session of the Legislature. Dr. Chapman has served the State Senate continuously since 1930, and was chairman of the powerful appropriations committee at the last session.

Guardsmen Still On Duty In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Dec. 1 — (P)—Armed National Guardsmen continued to turn automobiles away from this city's industrial heart today as snow-clearing crews could finish clearing main traffic arteries.

The Steel City began to assume a somewhat normal appearance again—except for the tangle of martial law—after a record breaking snowfall of 30.5 inches since last Friday.

The storm has left a toll of 42 dead, 19 in the greater Pittsburgh area. The frozen body of William Cadler, 75, was found by police near the doorway of his small home in nearby Wilkins township last night. Police said he had been dead several days.

Sub-freezing temperatures caused a thin glaze of ice to form on district streets and highways early today. Trucks which had hauled snow all week started to haul cinders.

Most public transportation lines are operating on schedule again for shoppers and workers.

No. 1 Communist Jailed In Contempt

Washington, Dec. 1 — (P)—Earl Browder, longtime No. 1 American Communist, was jailed today after he failed to put up $1,500 bond on a contempt of congress charge.

Federal Judge Edward M. Curran turned down Browder's plea to remain at liberty on his personal bond.

Browder was indicted earlier this week on the contempt charge for refusing to answer questions before a senate subcommittee during an investigation of Communist-in-government charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Judge Curran asked Browder whether he had an attorney and he said he didn't. Next he was asked whether he had any money to employ an attorney and he said "No."

Asked whether he wanted the services of court-appointed counsel, Browder said he wished to serve as his own attorney.

BULLETIN!

Washington, Dec. 1 — (P)—President Truman today asked Congress to provide an additional $17,850,000,000 for arms, including atomic weapons, with the "utmost speed" because of the "gravity of the world situation." In a message to the legislators, Mr. Truman said "these funds are needed to support our part in the United Nations military action in Korea, and to increase the size and readiness of our armed forces should action become necessary in other parts of the world."

Washington, Dec. 1 — (P)—The army today issued a draft call for 50,000 men in February.

THE MARKETS

New York, Dec. 1 — (P)—The stock market slowly tilted forward today after an indecisive start. Much of the buying interest centered on the steel and motor groups. Selected railway, chemical, and radio-television issues also drew support. A large assortment of stocks, at the same time, either backed down a trade or remained at Thursday's closing levels. Changes either way were confined to 50 cents a share or less for the most part. Brisk opening leadings soon gave way to a more sedate pace.

Logan Reappointed Budget Secretary

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 1 — (P)—U.S. Senator John F. Breaux today reappointed six members of the Duff cabinet. He has replaced only one.

The latest cabinet reappointment is Budget Secretary Edward E. Logan of Harrisburg.

Previously Breaux announced he will retain the following members of Gov. James I. Duff's official family:

- Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst, Secretary of Revenue Otto F. Messner, Highways Secretary Ray F. Smock, Welfare Secretary William C. Brown and Adjutant General Frank A. Weber.

The only new cabinet member named by Breaux so far is former State Senator Andrew J. Sordani of Villages-Erie, an intimate of the governor-elect. Breaux is expanding his "working" vacation at Sordani's Miami Beach home. Sordani replaces Theodore Roosevelt, D.D., as secretary of commerce.

Political associates report that Breaux, former state superior court judge, will not reappoint at least eight other members of the Duff cabinet to the $15,000-a-year jobs they now hold.

Report Is Made On School Bundle Day

Warren borough schools collected 129 bundles of used clothing, weighing about 2,350 pounds, for the Save-the-Children Bundle Day held just prior to the Thanksgiving holiday.

The clothing will be sent to the Federation of workrooms in Abingdon, Va., from where it will be distributed to needy children in rural areas of the United States and to several European countries. In America, it goes to low-income rural selections of nine states and to American Indian reservations.

Object of the collection is to provide clothing for school children who could not otherwise attend school because of lack of proper clothing.

CAPITAL WILL HONOR THE 26TH DIVISION

Harrisburg, Dec. 1 — (P)—Pennsylvania's capital city will celebrate "26th Division Day" tomorrow as part of a drive to raise recreation funds for the Key-Sons Division of the federal training at Camp Attlebury, Ind.

The money will be used to purchase furnishings and equipment for two recreation rooms used by Harrisburg members of the Division.

High school students will collect the contributions. Each contributor will receive a small red Key-Son lapel pin, a replica of the shoulder badge worn by the 26th Division soldiers.

Mayor Cluder R. Robins proclaimed Saturday as "26th Division Day" in line with the fund raising campaign.

KIRK ON VACATION

Harrisburg, Dec. 1 — (P)—U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk is scheduled to leave Monday for a two month vacation in the United States. The American envoy will be accompanied by Mrs. Kirk. It will be his first visit home since he took over the ambassadorship in 1949.
